The check-in deadlines of the operating airline always apply; these are available on the Internet at www.airberlin.com/meldeschlusszeit. Please consult them prior to departure.

AVIH (Animal in hold) For the entire flight the animal must be safely stored in a locked and shockproof container. The container must be escape-proof, waterproof and lockable. It must be properly ventilated (vent holes on all four sides including the door). The container size must allow freedom of movement for the animal to stand, lie down and turn around freely. A water tank, which has to be accessible from the outside, must be available in the container. The transport container is to be provided by the passenger. If entering the European Union, the passenger shall exhibit the pet to the airport authorities (federal police, customs department) and, for this purpose, shall allow the inspection of both pet and box at the follow-up-inspection-room. Instructions of the ground staff and the airport authorities have to be strictly observed by the passenger. Within the follow-up-inspection, the pet shall be taken out of the box, if necessary the box shall also be radiographed. In case that a X-Ray-examination at the oversized baggage-counter should be necessary, the passenger is obliged to supervise the pet until such examination has ended. The passenger bears sole responsibility for ensuring that all requirements and restrictions associated with the import and export of animals are complied with. The passenger is generally liable for any damage and consequential damage caused by the animal or its transportation. The transportation of animals is governed by the IATA Live Animals Regulations, which the airline may provide on request. Furthermore, we would like to indicate our modified check-in deadlines for passengers travelling with pets in hold. Please note, the check-in deadline for short or medium haul flights is 60 minutes and for a long haul flight it is 90 minutes prior departure.
